1. Our core beliefs regarding user privacy and data protection

- User privacy and data protection are human rights
- We have a duty of care to the people within our data
- Data is a liability; it should only be collected and processed when absolutely necessary
- We will never sell, rent or otherwise distribute or make public your personal information

2. Relevant legislation

Along with our business and internal computer systems, this website is designed to comply with the following national and international legislation with regards to data protection and user privacy:

- UK Data Protection Act 1988 (DPA)
- EU Data Protection Directive 1995 (DPD)
- EU General Data Protection Regulation 2018 (GDPR)

Compliance with the above legislation likely ensures compliance with many other national and international data protection laws. For questions, please contact our data protection officer (details below).

3. Personal information that this website collects

3.1. Site visitation tracking

We do not use any third-party tracking tools such as Google Analytics, and our website does not use tracking cookies. No data about your visit—such as your location, device type, browser, IP address, or behavior—is collected, stored, or analyzed. Your visit to our site is entirely private and anonymous. We do not track or record any aspect of your activity.

3.2. Contact forms and email links

If you contact us using our form or email, the data you provide is not stored or shared with any third-party processors. It is sent to us via SMTP.

4. How we store your personal information

Only member data (name, email, username, photo) is stored on our server. This ensures secure login and member benefits. Data is held only while you are a member.

6. Data Breaches

We will report any data breaches involving identifiable personal data within 72 hours to all relevant parties and authorities.
